

Notification of Data Security Incident

On or about April 30, 2026, Judice & Adley became aware of potential unauthorized activity within their email tenant. Once identified, we engaged third-party specialists to assist with investigating the activity. The investigation determined that an unknown actor gained access to an inbox, and potentially accessed a limited number of emails. In response, we initiated a review of the contents of the emails that were identified as potentially accessed without authorization data to determine the contents of the at-risk data and to whom it related. The review was complete on August 5, 2026 and determined that the data that was potentially impacted varies by individual, but may include an individual's name and one or more of the following: Social Security number, driver's license number or government-issued identification number, taxpayer identification number, or medical information.

Upon learning of this event, we immediately took steps to secure our email environment and undertook a thorough investigation. We are reviewing our policies and procedures, implemented additional technical safeguards to further enhance the security of information in our possession and to prevent similar incidents from happening in the future. Additionally, we are offering potentially impacted individuals complimentary credit monitoring and identity protection services.

Individuals should remain vigilant in regularly reviewing and monitoring all your account statements, explanation of benefits statements, insurance statements, and credit history to guard against any unauthorized transactions or activity. If an individual discovers any suspicious or unusual activity on their accounts, they should promptly contact their financial institution or company. They can also review the "Steps You Can Take to Help Protect Your Information," below, for additional resources, including instructions on how to enroll in the complimentary credit monitoring services.

STEPS YOU CAN TAKE TO HELP PROTECT YOUR INFORMATION

Monitor Your Accounts

We encourage you to remain vigilant against incidents of identity theft and fraud by reviewing your credit reports and account statements for suspicious activity and to detect errors. Under U.S. law, you are entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, TransUnion, Experian, and Equifax. To order your free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call 1-877-322-8228. Once you receive your credit report, review it for discrepancies and identify any accounts you did not open or inquiries from creditors that you did not authorize. If you have questions or notice incorrect information, contact the credit reporting bureau.

You have the right to place an initial or extended "fraud alert" on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a one-year alert that is placed on a consumer's credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer's identity before extending new credit. If you are a victim of identity theft, you are entitled to an extended fraud alert lasting seven years. Should you wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any of the three credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, you have the right to place a "credit freeze" on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without your express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. However, you should be aware that using a credit freeze may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application you make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, you cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on your credit report. To request a credit freeze, you will need to provide the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Address for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (e.g., state driver's license or identification card); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft, if you are a victim of identity theft.

Should you wish to place a fraud alert or credit freeze, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:
